CONCORD, N.H. (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York, pushing his presidential hopes in New Hampshire on Friday derided as "half-baked" the suggestion that the United States withdraw from the United Nations if Red China is admitted.

In a speech prepared for a Concord dinner, Rockefeller said: "I can see no sense in the half-baked notion that we should take our dolls and go home, abandoning the United Nations to the Russian and Chinese Communists."

Johnson-Shriver, Goldwater-Scranton Tickets Backed

By Congressional Quarterly

WASHINGTON (CQ)—Members of Congress believe that Johnson-Shriver and Goldwater-Scranton tickets would be the strongest their respective parties could field for the 1964 Presidential election.

In a poll conducted by Congressional Quarterly, each member of Congress was asked in mid-January to report on his "current judgment of the strongest possible ticket" his party could nominate in 1964.

Democrats were virtually unanimous in picking President Lyndon B. Johnson as their party's best 1964 standard bearer. Of the 144 Democrats who responded to the poll, 143 voted for Johnson and 1 for Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.).

Republican Presidential

The Republican balloting, based on 113 replies received, was closer. Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.) ran far ahead of the field, but failed to obtain an absolute majority. Running in second place for the GOP presidential nod was Gov. William W. Scranton (R-Pa.), trailed closely by former Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

Smaller numbers of Republican presidential votes were cast for Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller (R-N.Y.), Gov. George W. Romney (R-Mich.) and Rep. Gerald R. Ford Jr. (R-Mich.).

For President - Republicans
Goldwater 50 44.2%
Scranton 23 20.4
Nixon 20 17.7
Rockefeller 7 6.2

Republican Vice President

Single GOP votes were cast for Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, Sen. Margaret Chase Smith (R-Maine), Sen. Thurston B. Morton (R-Ky.) and former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey (R-N.Y.), the 1944 and 1948 Republican Presidential nominee.

Goldwater ran strongly in the South (7 of 10 votes), in the Midwest (24 of 29 votes) and in the West (16 of 24 votes). But in the East he garnered only 2 of the 37 votes cast.

Scranton received 17 of the Eastern votes but only scattered support elsewhere. The Nixon votes were concentrated in the East and Midwest, with only in his favor. Democratic Vice President The Democratic members' choice of their strongest vice presidential nominee was divided. Peace Corps Director R. Sargent Shriver, brother-in-law of the late President Kennedy and a close associate of President Johnson, received 45 votes, 31.3 percent of the 144 cast. But Sen. Humphrey had 42 votes, close behind Shriver.

Surprisingly, Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy ran far behind in the Democratic Vice Presidential balloting with only five members in favor of him.

Other candidates who received scattered support included Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy (D-Minn.), United Nations Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson, Gov.

Edmund G. Brown (D-Calif.), Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff (D-Conn.) and New York Mayor Robert F. Wagner (D).

Many Democratic Congressmen declined to indicate a choice for vice president, saying the final selection would be made by President Johnson anyway.

Vice President - Democrats
Shriver 45 31.3%
Humphrey 42 29.2
McCarthy 11 7.6
Stevenson 9 6.2
Brown 5 3.5
Kennedy 5 3.5
Ribicoff 3 2.1
Wagner 3 2.1
Scattered, Blank 21

Shriver's support was strong in each section of the country, including the South.

Republican Vice President

Republican members picked Scranton as their choice for the strongest vice presidential nominee, but the votes were widely scattered. Running closest behind Scranton were Morton, Romney and Goldwater, followed by Ford, Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel (R-Calif.), Gov. Mark Hatfield (R-Ore.), former Rep. Walter H. Judd (R-Minn.), Lodge, Rockefeller and Republican National Chairman William E. Miller.

Vice President - Republicans
Scranton 21 18.6%
Morton 13 11.5
Goldwater 12 10.6
Romney 10 8.8
Ford 8 7.1
Kuchel 7 6.2
Hatfield 6 5.3
Judd 4 3.5

Lodge 4 3.5 Rockefeller 3 3.5 Miller 3 2.7

Of Scranton's 21 votes for Vice President, 12 were cast by Midwesterners, many of whom had backed Goldwater for the first slot.

1960 Polls
In similar Congressional Quarterly polls conducted before the 1960 Presidential nominating conventions, Johnson steadily built up Congressional support to 51 percent just before the conventions. But John F. Kennedy, who won only 20 percent of the Members' votes as his party's strongest Presidential candidate, actually won the nomination.

2 Western GOP States 'Curious' About Scranton

HARRISBURG (AP)—Two Rocky Mountain Republican governors indicated Friday their home states were curious about Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton as a GOP presidential possibility.

However, they said Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater was more popular in their particular region.

The governors, John Love of Colorado, and Robert E. Smylie of Idaho, met with Scranton for an hour to discuss plans for the Republican Governors' Association. The three chief executives comprise the association's executive committee.

Want Scranton Visit
Love and Smylie told newsmen they would like to see Scranton come to their states.

With some banter between the three about the relative merits of skiing in the three states, Scranton said he did not plan to visit Idaho or Colorado in the near future.

Smylie and Love were asked if they found much support for Scranton in their home states. "I think an awful lot of people in Idaho who are interested in the governor of Pennsylvania and curious about him would certainly like to know him better," said Smylie.

"I find increasing interest—inquiries and so on—about Gov. Scranton," said Love. "I know that there is interest and knowledge of the fine job he is doing."

Goldwater Support
Love said the only organized political group he knew of in Colorado "is a group that backs Sen. Goldwater's candidacy at the moment."

Smylie said Goldwater probably was the strongest candidate currently in Idaho.

Smylie said that in political terms "we're always impressed with anybody who can carry a state as big as Pennsylvania by 500,000 votes." Scranton carried Pennsylvania by 450,000 votes in the 1962 gubernatorial election.

Both governors said they personally were uncommitted. They both said they expected to lead their state delegations to the GOP convention in San Francisco in July. Both indicated they preferred uncommitted delegations.

GOP Governors

Smylie, who is chairman of the Republican Governors' Association, was optimistic about Republicans' chances in gubernatorial elections this year.

Asked if the GOP could end the year with control of a majority of the 50 state administrations, Smylie said:

"I think it can swing back. Republicans now control 16 governorships. They have seven up for reelection this year."

Of the 10 Democratic-held governorships up for election, Smylie predicted the GOP would take at least 10. He identified them as Indiana, Wisconsin, Vermont, Washington, West Virginia, Massachusetts, North Dakota, New Hampshire, Iowa and Illinois.

Tight Races

Smylie conceded that a couple of the GOP-held governorships up for election "are going to be tight" races.

New Amendment

Amendment—They hailed enactment of the 24th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution outlawing poll taxes. In doing so, they said 90 percent of the state legislatures under Republican control ratified the amendment, while only 50 percent of the legislatures under Democratic control approved it.

In a joint statement the governors criticized President Johnson's statements on the amendment.

They said that Johnson, "as a member of Congress refused 12 times since 1942 to vote for abolishing the tax." They added:

"We are appalled at his hypocrisy in announcing Thursday his 'great delight' that the job has at long last been accomplished."

Africans Rebel At Kenya Camp

LONDON (AP)—African troops of the Kenya Rifles mutinied Friday night at a camp 100 miles north of Nairobi, the Kenya capital, the Commonwealth Relations Office reported Saturday.

Kenya thus became the fourth nation of old British East Africa to become involved in upheavals in less than two weeks. There were army mutinies in this week in Tanganyika and Uganda and an armed rebellion in Zanzibar a week previously.

The Commonwealth spokesman said of the Nakuru mutiny:

French Move On China Causes Far East Crisis

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States strongly advised Nationalist China Friday to avoid a quick break in relations with France when President Charles De Gaulle recognizes the Chinese Communist regime next week.

The De Gaulle move, expected about Tuesday, threatens to trigger a crisis in Far Eastern diplomacy as well as intensify the strain which already exists in U.S.-French relations.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk took time from last-minute preparations for a trip to Japan to receive Nationalist China's ambassador, Dr. Tingfu F. Tsiang. The envoy asked to see Rusk for consultation on the impending French move. Immediately following the meeting, Rusk left for Tokyo and a one-day visit to Korea.

De Gaulle Deal

De Gaulle has sent word to President Johnson that the deal he has made with Red China does not call for a break in French relations with Nationalist China. This, De Gaulle is understood to feel, may open the way for a two-China solution of the whole Chinese problem.

Nationalist China and Red China each has refused to have full diplomatic ties with a nation recognizing the rival China. If France achieves a dual-relation status it will be the first major power to do so.

U.S. officials have decided, it was learned, that the two-China theory advanced by De Gaulle may prove embarrassing to Paris and they see no reason why a quick break by the Chinese Nationalists should get France off this potential hook.

Rusk, therefore, is reported to have advised the Chinese ambassador as emphatically as possible that Nationalist China should refrain from any hasty breaking of ties and recalling of its diplomats from Paris.

Two Chinas

Delay, U.S. officials feel, would make it possible to learn Red China's real attitude on the two-China question. If the Reds will not tolerate the kind of arrangement De Gaulle believes he has it will be up to France to make the break.

Amused as U.S. foreign policymakers are by De Gaulle's decision, they see no worthwhile retaliatory course open to the United States. They are fearful that the French move may further weaken the already battered line which the United States has been trying to hold against any increase in Western trade and diplomatic ties with Red China.

They recognize also that the line against increasing industrial trade with Cuba and the restraints which the United States has tried to maintain on long-term credits to Russia may be further weakened.

Kistler Happy

Thomas Kistler, mayor of East Stroudsburg, said, "We are very, very happy to learn of the grant. Needless to say the borough is in need of the money to build the filtration plant and make needed changes at the reservoirs."

"The borough council has been aided by Dr. LeRoy J. Koehler, president of East Stroudsburg State College."

"I have been given to understand that he contacted Washington about a week ago and told Rep. Rooney that the grant was needed because of the proposed building program at the college, which would require more water within the next ten years; that the borough has already issued bonds to cover the construction of a sewage disposal system and a new school," he added.

Mayor Kistler concluded saying, "I am quite sure that council will approve advertising for bids at its next meeting."

William Schnader, president of the council, said, "This will really help us and the people in the borough who have come to council with various

Rooney Announces Public Works Aid

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Congressman Fred B. Rooney last night announced approval of a $343,500 grant to the Borough of East Stroudsburg for a filtration plant and renovations at the borough's reservoirs in Smithfield Twp. near Brushy Mountain.

Work is supposed to begin within 75 days.

Congressman Rooney praised the action of the Housing and Home Finance Agency, Community Facilities Administration, for its approval of the grant under the Accelerated Public Works Program.

The congressman said:

"This grant should make it possible for the borough government in East Stroudsburg to move forward on one of the most important projects it has undertaken in recent years."

"I am delighted to say that the agency and all the parties at the local level have cooperated thoroughly with me in working toward the successful approval of this program."

The grant is for the proposed $657,988 plant which will be located near the intersection of Twp. Rts. 515 and 508.

Both routes go north off Rt. 191. Rt. 515 goes from near Tru-Matic Tol Co. north to the reservoir and Rt. 508 travels north to the reservoir from near Beakleville Baptist Church.

The plant is called a waterworks intake and water treatment plant of the rapid sand type with a nominal capacity of 2,000,000 gallons of water daily to serve residents of the Borough of East Stroudsburg.

The present water supply operation is geared to produce 1,500,000 gallons daily. The new plant will increase this by 500,000 gallons a day.

Water will be piped into the plant in a new 16-inch main from the middle dam. This is a distance of approximately 800 feet.

The intake dam, with a capacity of 7,000,000 gallons, will be used as a storage reservoir and will be used only in an emergency. The capacity of the middle dam reservoir is 50,000,000 gallons.

The purpose of the new plant is to permit effective treatment of water of taste and odor at all times. The water will be treated and will leave the plant uniformly clear, colorless and of safe sanitary quality.

In addition, the new plant will offer the borough clearance to use the same water mains now in operation.

Dead Man's Heart Put In Dying Man

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Surgeons took the heart from a dead man, revived it and transplanted it into the chest of a man dying of a heart failure Friday.

For an hour, it worked—perhaps the first successful human heart transplant in the world.

Then the substitute heart failed and the patient died.

"The dimensions of the only available donor heart at the time of the patient's collapse proved too small for the requirements of the considerably larger recipient," a spokesman said. "This disparity must be minimized in future operations."

The spokesman added the surgeons were "gratified to confirm that procedures previously worked out in the experimental laboratory are effective in man."

Surgeons at the University of Mississippi Medical Center here performed the operation.

The hospital declined to disclose the names of the surgeons, the names and ages of the donors and recipient, and withheld details of the arrangement and circumstances leading up to the transplant.

Following the hospital's brief announcement, a spokesman said: "No further information will be released until additional clinical experience is gained."

The spokesman said this meant the hospital would say nothing more until another heart transplant is tried.

At Chicago, the American Medical Association said this was, as far as it knew, the first heart transplant ever to work.

The spokesman at the medical center here said the recipient was rushed into the operating room "in shock, dying of terminal heart failure from chronic heart disease of years' duration."

The operation began shortly before midnight and ended three hours later, early Friday morning.

"During transfer and while being sewed in place," the spokesman said, the donor heart "was preserved with chilled, well-oxygenated blood pumped backwards through the coronary sinus," the large vein that drains the heart itself.

Zacchaeus and Rich Young Ruler ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Mark 10:17-31; Luke 18:1-10.

The rich young ruler begs Jesus for the secret of eternal life. Jesus tells him to obey the commandments, sell his possessions and give to the poor, then follow Him.—Mark 10:17-21.

When the young man refuses to give up his wealth, Jesus tells the disciples eternal life is a gift of God and men who value wealth cannot enter God's kingdom.—Mark 10:22-31.

Zacchaeus, the tax-gatherer, waits in a tree for Jesus, hoping for some forgiveness of his sins, redemption and restoration to fellowship with God and man.—Luke 19:1-6.

Under Jesus' influence, Zacchaeus is converted completely to Christ. His sins are forgiven and he is saved.—Luke 19:7-10.

GOLDEN TEXT: Matthew 8:33.

Today's Lesson:

The Young Ruler

By R. H. RAMSEY

Today's lesson involves two men seeking Jesus' counsel in order to arrive at decisions. After the interview, one makes the right decision, the other the wrong one.

The interview of the rich, young ruler with Jesus (Mark 10:17-22) is a comparatively well-known episode, recorded also in Matthew 19:16-30 and Luke 18:18-30. The young man involved apparently had everything anyone could possibly want: youth, wealth, position, and kept himself free of the great vices such as young men are prone to. Yet, he felt something lacking, something all his assets and purity could not bring him. That "something" was eternal life. He longed for it and was convinced it could be had by doing something about it. Not knowing exactly what to do, he asks Jesus.

Jesus reproves him for calling himself "good," reminding him that no one, except God, is truly "good." Then He cites those commandments which provide the simplest guides for a "good" life. In his assured reply that he has always obeyed these commandments, the rich young ruler sounds relieved, for if eternal life can be secured this easily, it is already his (vv. 17-20).

Jesus, seeing through the young man's apparent goodness, tells him he still is lacking in one thing. He is hampered by his earthly riches and possessions. If he were to sell these possessions and give to the poor, he should acquire treasure in heaven. Then Jesus lays an additional requirement before the young man: that he should come, take up the cross, and follow Him (v. 21).

Now, Jesus is not telling all who follow Him to sell their possessions. Rather, He is putting His finger on the one thing this man idolizes in his secret heart, the one thing he feels he cannot do without — his wealth.

Neither does He mean that simply by selling what he has and giving to the poor, every man would automatically acquire treasure in heaven, for a man could do this in all sincerity and still never see heaven. Eternal life cannot be gained through giving up anything, or everything, on this earth. It is a gift of God through Jesus Christ, and the man who does not have Christ in his heart cannot gain eternal life (vv. 22-31).

What the young man came to Christ for, he received. He was told how eternal life could be obtained, but apparently he forfeited it for his love of earthly wealth and luxury. Zacchaeus, also, was possessed of wealth, but, as a tax-gatherer, he had come by some dishonestly. Outcast, sick of the past, anxious to enter a new life, he sought to see Jesus, hoping for something — even a word — which would relieve him of his sins and restore him to fellowship with God.

Jesus undoubtedly was the only person in Jericho who knew Zacchaeus was sitting in the sycamore tree that day (Luke 19:4). He knew why he was there, that his soul was ready for redemption. So, when He came to the tree He stopped, looked into Zacchaeus' intent face and bade him to come down, telling him He had planned to stay that day in his house (v. 5).

There is nothing in Luke's narrative to indicate Zacchaeus was a secret disciple or even believed in Jesus. But the Savior's influence on his life made him realize his selfish attitude toward his possessions, his sinful uncharitableness toward those he had cheated. The result was an immediate and radical conversion, the genuineness of which is indicated by the practical, specific and definite way it worked out, even including his worldly goods (vv. 6-8).

GUEST SPEAKER — The Rev. Robert S. Lowndes will be the guest speaker Sunday in the Mountain-home Methodist Church at the 8:30 and 10:15 a.m. services.

The Bible Belt

By HOYT HARWELL

ATLANTA (AP) — The rural South, long regarded as the nation's Bible Belt, is losing many of its people to the city and to industry.

But for the most part its churches are doing well.

A decade ago, with farms becoming mechanized and displaced tenant farmers moving to town in search of jobs, predictions arose that many rural churches would die.

Some have died, but others have risen. Many have smaller congregations but larger budgets.

And on countless rural hill-tops the only one-room frame church has been replaced by modern sanctuaries with complexes of Sunday School buildings, parking lots and playgrounds that many city churches would envy.

A paradox discovered in a survey of Baptist, Methodist and Presbyterian work in the South is that many city churches are rural in complexion, and that oftentimes rural and small-town churches have a cultural, economic and educational edge over their city cousins.

Pastoral leadership has traditionally been a problem in rural areas, but this too is improving gradually. The problem is that better-prepared ministers feel they can serve more people in city churches with large memberships, and city churches often look to the countryside in selecting their pastors.

"Our rural preachers are now better educated. We get a good man there and the city wants him," says James W. Sells, executive secretary of the Methodist Church's southeastern jurisdictional council.

The solution to reviving weaker country churches lies in stronger programs and more inter-church cooperation.

Protestants Seeking Aid For Overseas Projects

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Protestant denominations have set a record-breaking total of $17,988,351 as the goal of their annual One Great Hour of Sharing appeal for support of programs of assistance to the homeless, hungry and destitute in 41 countries.

This goal — an increase of $1,142,211 over 1963 — was announced today by Church World Service, which sponsors the appeal on behalf of participating Protestant and Eastern Orthodox denominations. Church World Service is a department of the National Council of Churches.

Funds realized through the One Great Hour of Sharing appeal will go toward support of individual denominational programs of assistance, and joint projects of aid carried on overseas through Church World Service, the World Council of Churches and related international organizations.

Highlight of the appeal this year will be One Great Hour of Sharing observances by more than 94,000 individual congregations throughout the nation on Sunday, March 8. This marks the sixteenth annual concerted appeal of major denominations working together to relieve suffering overseas.

Both disaster relief services and long-term rehabilitation efforts to help those in need to help themselves are made possible through this united Protestant appeal.

In the past year Italian survivors of Hurricane Flora were aided by volunteer medical, construction and agricultural teams, some of which are still working in the disaster area. Air shipments of life-saving drugs, blankets and foods were rushed to the scene.

Homeless victims of the earthquake in Skopje, Yugoslavia, received food, clothing and blankets. Funds were provided for a section of durable pre-fab houses, with the churches also sending volunteer construction workers to the site.

Other disasters — fires, floods, cyclones, drought, famine, volcanic eruptions — in Asia, Africa, the Middle East, Europe, Latin America and the Caribbean, drew the same quick response.

At the same time this success was being given the disaster-stricken, continuing programs of relief and rehabilitation were implemented.

Monroe Taxpayers Paid $71,674 To Pension Fund

By Jim Shafer
Daily Record Reporter

STROUDSBURG — In three years Monroe County taxpayers have dumped $71,674.56 into a pension plan matching fund for Monroe County employees.

When the pension plan was established in 1961, the county contributed $3,574.84 to the plan. The following two years — 1962 and 1963 an additional $4,099.72 went from the taxpayers' pockets into the pension fund.

In 1962 $24,599.88 was contributed, and in 1963 the amount was $23,499.84.

The retirement fund now boasts $111,090. This includes county and employees' contributions. The sum also is represented by U.S. Savings Bonds, stocks, a savings account and a checking account.

Not Mandatory

In 1961 the county board of commissioners approved establishing a pension system for all county employees. It was not mandatory that the employees joined the system, but most did. The commissioners, at the time of vote, were John R. Lessine, Willard Quick and Stanley Rader. Lessine voted against the plan.

The plan, which became effective Jan. 2, 1961, is complex because it covers present service and makes allowance for prior service.

For the employee who joined the plan a percentage of his weekly or monthly wage is deducted and placed in the retirement fund account. The county matches the amount. This continues until the employee decides to retire, is voted out of office, is discharged, is disabled, or quits.

Here is when the complexity of the plan comes to light, so here an examination of the plan is in order.

First, what is the employee's contribution rate? Secondly, is there any option? Third, is there a disability allowance and how does it work? Fourth, what are the requirements to draw a pension and how is the payment figured? Last, what happens to an employee's contributions if he quits?

Contribution rates of the employee are a percentage of their salary. The percentage is figured on the age of the individual at his or her nearest birthday to the date he joins the retirement system.

Contributions Vary

In short, the contribution rate varies with the individual. Also the rates for a female employee are slightly higher than the male of the same age. This is due to a woman's greater longevity.

The rates, are on file with the secretary of the retirement board in the commissioners' office.

The plan offers three options. They are:

Option One — If the employee dies before receiving retirement allowance payments, the present value at time of his retirement of both his annuity and county annuity, then the balance of the present value will be paid in a lump sum to the beneficiary or estate.

Option Two — Upon death, his beneficiary will be paid the same amount of monthly annuity for life.

Option Three — Upon death, the beneficiary will be paid one-half the monthly annuity for life.

The disability allowance is made for total disability, but after five years service and prior to attainment of superannuation retirement.

Payment will be made at the rate of 20 per cent of the employee's average salary plus allowance provided by his accumulated deductions.

The requirements for drawing a pension are 10 years service in the county's employment or having reached the age of 60.

If the employee terminates his services with the county and he is unable to meet requirements to draw a pension he will receive all he contributed plus 3 1/2 per cent interest on the amount.

An example of how the plan works is as follows:

The employee is 60 years of age and has 25 years of service, of which 15 years were prior to the plan becoming effective and 10 years after the plan went into effect. His average salary for the last five years this was his highest earning period — is $2,700 per year.

His membership for the 10 years covered by the plan would amount to $255 per year. This is figured by multiplying 10-120 by $2.700.

The $255 is matched by the county giving a subtotal of $450 per year.

To figure the 15 years before the plan became effective one must multiply 15-60 by $2,700. This equals $675 and makes a total of 1,125 per year.

The monthly payment to this person would be $93.75.

Members of the system who are drawing pensions are John Biggs, a former janitor at the courthouse, John LaBar, and George Brands, Sr., former chief assessor.

Members who will draw their first pension check this month are Willard L. Quick, former commissioner, Jacob F. Altemuse, former sheriff; Leo Acherman, former county solicitor; N. Henry Fenner, former prothonotary; Mrs. Myrtle Arnold, former cook at county home; Ralph Van Buskirk, former sealer of weights and measures, and Mrs. Lella Singer, former nurse at the county home.

Quick was defeated in his bid for re-election as a county commissioner. He qualifies by age.

Altemuse retired as sheriff after serving 12 years. He qualifies by service.

Others who qualify are: Acherman, former county solicitor; Fenner, former prothonotary and clerk of courts; Van Buskirk, former sealer of weights and measures; Mrs. Arnold and Mrs. Singer, both former county home employees.

10 Eligible For Pensions

STROUDSBURG — Ten persons, all former employees of Monroe County, are now on the rolls and are eligible for monthly pension payments from the county. They are:

John Biggs, $25.23; John LaBar, $97.08; George Brands, Sr., $29.65; Willard Quick, $81.53; Atty. Leo Acherman, $86.87; Jacob F. Altemuse, $36.99; N. Henry Fenner, $81.03; Mrs. Myrtle Arnold, $33.85; Ralph Van Buskirk, $19.79, and Mrs. Lella Singer, $17.25.

Pipher Registration Goal: 'Every Citizen A Voter'

STROUDSBURG — Monroe County Commissioner Stuart Pipher urged all persons in the county who are of voting age to register now.

At the recent Democratic registration meeting at the Monroe County YMCA, he said, "Registration of the unregistered is a continuous process which demands vigorous action from all persons who hope to win elections."

"My goal is every citizen a voter. If liberty and equality, as is thought by some, are chiefly to be found in democracy, they will be best attained when all persons alike share in the government to the utmost," he continued.

Pipher concluded saying, "So I ask you to please register and vote. This gives a citizen his best chance to express his opinion on such issues as taxes, unemployment, compensation, planning and zoning, Mt. Pocono Airport, and many other important issues that affect our every day lives."

Open Until March 9

Registration is now open and will remain open until March 9.

Industry In Monroe

The possibility of attracting new industry to Monroe County and the Pocono Mountain area was debated Thursday night at the first community planning conference organized by County Agent John Withrow and the Penn State University Extension Service.

The speaker, Carl J. Mays, planning director for Orange County, N.Y., for seven years, said that every area in the nation is competing for new industries. He said many areas have more to offer prospective new industries.

It is true that many industry-hungry communities are offering fantastic bargains to companies willing to build new plants in their towns.

The more aggressive communities have industrial development companies which purchase land, install facilities like railroads, streets, water and sewer lines and electricity and then offer land in their industrial parks at incredibly low prices.

Some communities build the shell for new plants and offer tax breaks to attract new industries. It is a very competitive field.

All this is true. It is true that Pocono Mountain Industries, Inc., the industrial development arm of the Pocono Mountains Chamber of Commerce, does not offer all these inducements.

It contacts prospective industries, offers information and site inspection trips and does a lot of foot and phone work in its effort to bring new companies to the Pocono Mountains.

We should not expect hundreds of major industries suddenly to build new plants in the Pocono Mountains. There are some we would not want to have here and there are many places in this county, which depends primarily on the resort and vacation industry, where we would not want to have any industry.

But there are solid prospects for substantial growth in the number of new plants and companies in the area.

The meeting of four-lane interstate highways going east and west, north and south, to major metropolitan areas in this county is certain to attract more new industries.

It makes Monroe County a central distribution point in a commercial age depending increasingly on trucks and highways for distribution of products.

At the same time, the Stroudsburg area is on the Erie-Lackawanna Railroad line, has two airports, and is about 85 miles from both New York City and Philadelphia.

The recent announcement by Mehl Manufacturing Co. that it would build a new plastics manufacturing plant near Stokes Mill proves the importance of the railroad and the highways here.

The company said the interstate highway system meeting here was a major factor in its decision to come to Stroudsburg. It also plans to use the railroad located next to its site.

The fact is that Monroe County and the Pocono Mountains can expect and had better plan for an increase in the number of industrial plants.

They are needed to give the economy a balance which it now lacks, but is slowly overcoming. They will provide year-round employment and year-round payrolls spent in stores and businesses of the area.

The Pocono Mountain resort industry, long a summer feast and winter famine, is itself expanding into the winter sports business and a year-round economy.

The presence of resorts, outdoor sports facilities, and beautiful mountain air and scenery is also an important factor in attracting new industries and business executives to the Pocono Mountains.

The area is now developing a sounder, year-round, economy balanced by resort and industrial employers. This healthy balance should be encouraged by the attraction of new industries.

Kennedy's Batting Average 27 Per Cent In Congress

By Congressional Quarterly

WASHINGTON (CQ) — The fifth longest session of Congress in the nation's history granted the late President Kennedy only 27.2 percent of his 401 specific legislative requests — the lowest score in ten years.

When it adjourned Dec. 30, the first session of the 86th Congress had taken no action at all on 91, or 22.7 percent of the requests. However, it had given its final disapproval of only 28, or 7 percent of the requests.

Action still could be taken in 1964 on 264 requests, although 34 of them were rejected in 1963 in a committee or on the floor of one chamber. It seemed likely, nevertheless, that Congress in 1963 failed to complete action on many proposals because of substantial opposition to them either in committee or on the floor. Although they were not voted down and hence did not constitute a clear defeat for the President, they were never brought to a committee and/or floor vote because of fear among supporters that they would be defeated. Their chances in 1964, therefore, were considered slim.

On three requests — notably a Department of Urban Affairs and Housing — the Administration never submitted legislation.

Congressional Quarterly each year breaks down the President's messages and letters to Congress into specific, detailed requests; the 401 this year topped Mr. Kennedy's previous record of 355 requests in 1961.

Major Successes

Mr. Kennedy's most spectacular successes came in his mental health and education programs. None of his defeats came on major programs. Partial action was taken on two top priority programs — a tax cut and civil rights — but final action was put off until 1964.

The final approval score was the lowest in the last 10 years. President Eisenhower's low point came in 1959, when a Democratic Congress gave him 30.6 percent of his 183 requests. President Kennedy in 1961 — his first year in office — gained approval of 48.4 percent of his 355 requests, and in 1962 Congress acted favorably on 44.6 percent of his 238 requests.

Status of Requests

The over-all status of President Kennedy's 401 requests at session's end:

109 requests — or 27.2 percent — were approved by both House and Senate and became law.

3 requests — 7 percent — were passed by the Senate and House in different forms but awaited compromise agreement.

55 requests — 13.7 percent — were passed by either the House or the Senate but not both.

26 requests — 6.5 percent — were approved by a committee but did not come up for a vote in either chamber.

35 requests — 13.7 percent — received committee hearings but were not reported.

31 requests — 22.7 percent — received no action at all.

34 requests — 8.5 percent — were rejected either in committee or on the floor but could be brought up again.

1963 Programs

Mr. Kennedy was granted nearly all his requests for expanded mental health and mental retardation programs.

The bulk of his education successes came in three bills — one providing medical school construction and student aid, another authorizing construction funds for colleges and universities, and a third expanding vocational education, National Defense Education Act and impacted areas programs.

Other victories for Mr. Kennedy include approval of the nuclear test ban treaty and enactment of 10 of his 30 civil rights requests. Although floor action on the omnibus civil rights bill was put off, Congress in 1963 approved extension and expansion of programs designed to open up new job opportunities for Negroes — Manpower Development and Training Act and vocational education programs.

Little or no action was taken on several key proposals, including permanent improvement of the unemployment insurance system, medical care and other benefits for the aged, and hospital construction program improvements.

On a number of other requests, final approval meant essentially an extension of existing programs — feed grains, debt limit, Export-Import Bank, Food for Peace and the Peace Corps.

Partial approval was granted to several additional requests, including a Youth Conservation Corps and home town youth corps, a National Service Corps, a Land Conservation Fund and a mass transit system.

Dimes March, Higher Pay; Ann Landers; Highways; Junk Yards

Public Support Asked for March of Dimes

Editor, The Daily Record:

Last October we, as volunteers for the Monroe County March of Dimes Conference held in Washington, D.C., to find out exactly what is being done by the March of Dimes organization.

As you know, it was the National Foundation through public support that sponsored, financed and made possible the creation of the Salk and Sabin vaccines which protect our children from crippling disease, namely polio.

Polio is a virus disease, a natural phenomenon. To protect human beings against it, the scientists had to know more than they did about the polio virus; they had to learn more about viruses in general.

The course which had to be taken led to the basis of biology and, in the search to explore the polio virus, discoveries were made years ago that helped pave the way for science of biology.

This new knowledge is being applied today in research that has nothing to do with polio but which has everything to do with the future health of the human race.

Let us cite two or three examples that illustrate the role the National Foundation has taken, leading toward present revolutionary developments in the life sciences.

We refer to the studies of recent years in nucleic acid, cellular and molecular biology, biochemistry and chemical genetics, one of the most exciting aspects of which is the work now in progress on what layman would identify as "the code of life" — or the functional arrangement of DNA and its bearing on the natural heritage of all living things.

A far cry, you say, from "polio research." Yet the story can be traced, step by step, from its essential beginnings in the work of the National Foundation grantees, among others, in the field of virology.

The virus has proved one of the most useful items in the study of biology in the last 20 years.

Dr. John F. Enders, working at Harvard under a grant from The National Foundation, discovered a way to grow polio virus in cultures of non-nervous tissues whereas, previous to 1949, usually living animals were required in working with viruses that affect man.

Enders' work, combined with that of Doctors Thomas H. Weller and Frederick C. Robbins, brought these three men a Nobel Prize in 1954.

In 1953, Dr. Renato Dulbecco, on a similar grant was able to apply the "plating method," which had been used in working with bacterial viruses, to the study of viruses that affect human beings, making it possible to study genetics at the most basic level by using a thin layer of living cells on a glass surface, they could pick out the descendants of a single virus particle, from generation to generation!

By 1948, the foundation realized that no disease is an island; that an integrated attack on the secrets of the area where lies the secrets of all.

In recognition of this fact, the National Foundation has restated its own concept as a flexible force in the field of health, working for you — the American public who supports it.

Anyone desiring information for Monroe County children with rheumatoid arthritis or birth defects who are in need of medical service, please call one of us.

And on Tuesday, Jan. 28, when the volunteer mothers and their helpers march to your doors between 6 and 7 p.m., give generously, knowing the March of Dimes is conscientiously providing a better, safer, fuller life for your children. And that means every community in America!

County Jury Commissioners Ask For Pay Increase

Editor, The Daily Record:

The following letter was sent to the Monroe County Commissioners and to Judge Fred W. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Monroe County voter elect the jury commissioners. We would like these voters to know we perform our assignment in an economical manner.

We the jury commissioners and secretary ask your consideration of the following facts. These are sufficient cause for a raise in pay for our present services.

Many of the departments such as 'auditors' received raises some time ago and we did not.

Five years ago the jury commissioners to fill a jury wheel worked 23 days at a cost to the county of $532 at the rate of $8 per day.

We present day jury commissioners do the same work in 10 days at a cost to the county of $413 at the rate of $12.50 per day.

Five years ago the jury commissioners to draw a jury for a term of court took seven days at a cost of $168.

We present day jury commissioners do the same work in two days at a cost to the county of $82.60.

Filling the jury wheel and drawing for jury four times a year, we present day jury commissioners do the same work as the jury commissioners of five years ago and do it in 33 less days at a saving of $480.60.

These figures are a matter of record.

In this present day of high costs and advance budgets we are extremely proud of the work we do and the way we do it.

We again ask your consideration for a raise in pay.

Pilot Urges Commissioners To Develop Hamlen Airport

Editor, The Daily Record:

I saw in the Daily Record, January 23 issue, that the Mt. Pocono Airport Authority met with the County Commissioners and asked the commissioners for $32,000 to complete the hangar building started by the lessee, Air-Mot, Inc.

I own a plane and fly from the Hamlen Airport and from my observation, the Hamlen Airport does far more for the county than the Mt. Pocono Airport.

The Mt. Pocono Airport has been in existence more than thirty years. It has cost the taxpayers far more than a half million dollars.

Population wise it is situated in such a remote place that it will take many more years for it to operate on a profitable basis. It is reported that the commissioners have already contributed $67,000 to the Mt. Pocono Airport.

As far as I know, they have contributed nothing to the Hamlen Airport.

I think that $32,000 is sufficient to build a hard surface runway at the local airport. If the commissioners are going to spend more of our money for aviation, it is my opinion and suggestion that they spend it where it will do the most people the most good.

If you will print this letter, I am sure a lot of aviation minded people will tell you the same thing.

I also appreciate the space given in the Record to the report of the medical profession on the evils of "cigarette smoking." The press would be guilty if it withheld such findings from the public.

Walter Lippmann

Johnson Budget

By Walter Lippmann

The President has been able to produce a budget which must seem at first glance too good to be true. But he has been able to do this because business is expected to be very good during 1964, because the tax cut is counted upon and because there is at least an intermission in the race of armaments.

The President has been able, therefore, to reduce expenditures in the administrative budget somewhat, by half a billion dollars. He has made small increases in expenditures for welfare purposes, and he has made a decrease of some three-quarters of a billion dollars in spending on defense and space combined.

At the same time, because of the expanding condition of the economy and the coming stimulus of the tax cuts, he is able to predict that budget receipts will increase by $4.6 billion. These additional revenues, plus the small decrease to cut the deficit from $10 billion in the year ending in June to less than $5 billion in the year beginning in July.

There is no trickery about this. To be sure, this is the administrative budget, which does not include Social Security, highways and other trust funds. But the administrative budget is the one everybody talks about. This budget, as all budgets, rests on estimates and guesses for a period which is between six and 18 months in the future. The budget cannot, therefore, take account of the unforeseeable emergencies which may occur. Some of the figures, for example a projected decrease in agricultural payments of $1.2 billion, depend on the weather and the passage by Congress of certain legislation. The predictions about government revenues rest on the assumption that Congress will pass the tax bill before the end of this winter.

There is also some question whether business expansion can be counted on to continue through next year, and there are those who think that some additional stimulus may be needed before the end of 1964.

While there can be no absolute certainty about what will happen in the future, there is no reason to doubt that the estimates have been made in good faith and that they have not been doctored. Given the excellent outlook for business and the military pause, the President is in the happy position of being able to reduce taxes to have business booming and to begin the attack on poverty.

What is more, President Johnson's political opponents should take a good look at one of the basic and crucial choices reflected in this budget. It is a wholly "conservative" choice. This is the decision to stimulate economic growth by an expansion of private rather than of public spending.

The Johnson budget cuts about $2 billion from the anticipated Kennedy budget for 1965.

The question, then, was how to offset the deflationary effect of this cut. It could have been done by an increase in domestic and foreign spending programs. There is no doubt that the public facilities of civilian life need to be strengthened. But, in fact, the President chose instead to cut taxes still more by reducing immediately the withholding rate to 14 percent.

The effect of this reduction in taxes collected will be to add about $200 million a month to the purchasing power of private individuals. If Congress approves it, the effect will be highly stimulating to the private economy.

The President has made the right choice, not only because it will be reassuring to many, but because the country is not prepared for an increase in public spending. The needs of education, health, urban renewal and conservation will have to wait upon the solution of political issues — as, for example, aid to church-related schools — that are still unsettled or bitterly contested.

Nevertheless, we must not nurse the illusion that there can be a serious attack on the poverty of the 10 million poor families of this country without a substantial increase in public spending.

Blames The Girls

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: If girls don't want trouble with boys, why do they ask for it? I think it's disgraceful the way young girls sit so close to boys who are driving automobiles that you can't get a toothpick between them. There ought to be a law against having a girl's arms flung around the neck of a boy who is trying to drive. Where do they think they are? Paris? It isn't safe on the streets any more with all those one-armed drivers. I am 31 years old. Someone should tell those brazen girls how to behave.

DISGUSTED CITIZEN

DEAR DISGUSTED: Yes. And it should be the nut behind the wheel.

DEAR ABBY: I am a minister and my wife thinks I have a problem. I don't care to drink anything hot. Especially coffee. (I cannot even stand the SMELL of coffee.) My wife thinks I embarrass a hostess when I refuse coffee, and asks instead for anything cold. She says a hostess goes out of her way to have a perfect meal for the preacher and when I say I don't like something it makes her feel ill at ease. Is my wife right? Must I force hot coffee down me? If not, how can I graciously refuse without embarrassing my hostess?

COLD DRINK PREACHER

DEAR PREACHER: Your wife is mistaken. A minister is just as entitled to his preferences as any other man. If you don't care for hot coffee, say so. And don't be fearful of embarrassing your hostess OR your wife.

DEAR ABBY: I am in the U.S. Navy and have been willing to this girl for over two years. We started out being just pen pals, but we have become very close through our letters. I mean it has become serious in a romantic kind of way. (Mention of marriage, etc. We have never met face to face, but we've exchanged pictures. I just found out that she was only 13 when she started writing to me (she said she was 18) and now she is only 15 years old. Do you think I should keep writing to her? I am almost 21.

FEELS FOOLISH

DEAR FEELS: Yes. But in your next letter, tell her frankly that you know her age, and also that you never would have begun the pen pal relationship with her had you known she was only 13 at the time. Then taper off.

Wildrick was born in East Stroudsburg on Feb. 12, 1945. He is a graduate of Bangor Area Joint High School and is now enrolled in East Stroudsburg State College. He ranked 10th in a high school graduating class of 138.

Wildrick was active in extra-curricular functions during high school as a member of the National Honor Society, vice president of the Student Council, sports editor of the school newspaper and a member of the varsity club. He was a member of the Bangor football team four years, serving two years as varsity quarterback and two as the school track team.

Gower was born and raised in Monroe County. He is a graduate of the Pleasant Valley Joint High School in Broadheadslee where he ranked in the upper level of his graduating class.

Gower was active in high school extra-curricular programs at Pleasant Valley where he was president of the student council in his senior year, served as editor of the yearbook and was a member of the newspaper staff. He played on Pleasant Valley's basketball team all four years during his high school career.

'Important' For 88th Congress To Okay Tocks, WRA Says

PHILADELPHIA — "It is very important that the 88th Congress authorize the proposed 'Tocks Island National Recreation Area this year' according to the Water Resources Association of the Delaware River Basin (WRA-DRB).

Tocks Island, a small island in the Delaware River about six miles north of the famous Delaware Water Gap, will be the site of a U.S. Army Corps of Engineers dam that will create a 37-mile long reservoir on the Delaware River. The dam, now in the planning stages, will probably go under construction in 1967.

The National Park Service, joined by the Delaware River Basin Commission and the States of Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York and Delaware, recommends that the Federal Government purchase and develop about 60,000 acres of land around the reservoir to create the first National Recreation Area in the East.

The proposed National Recreation Area, within 75 miles of both New York City and Philadelphia, would feature every conceivable kind of outdoor recreation facility. The National Park Service estimates that it would attract about 7,000,000 visitors each year.

Because of rising land values in the area, and to avoid confusion in planning, the WRA-DRB said that it is very important for the Congress to authorize the recreation area this year.

Five United States senators and many congressmen agree. Sen. Joseph S. Clark, at a meeting in the Poconos last October, said "it is next year or probably never".

Four bills are now before the Congress to authorize the recreation area. These are: S. 606, H. R. 2441, H. R. 2632 and H. R. 8696. H. R. 2441 was introduced by the late Congressman Francis E. Walter who was long an ardent proponent of the recreation area.

A pamphlet, "Tocks Island and Outdoor Recreation for the Crowded East," is available free from the WRA-DRB, 21 S. 12th St., Philadelphia. The WRA-DRB is a non-profit, impartial federation of over 500 citizen organizations and interested individuals whose purpose is to generate citizen interest and understanding in proposals for developing and fully utilizing the water resources of the Delaware Basin.

STROUDSBURG — The Stroudsburg Lions Club believes that four chairmen are better than none.

Going all out to make its Feb. 3 Red Cross blood drive a success, the club has appointed as co-chairmen Leslie Martin, Frederick Spencer, Carl Adelman Jr. and Dr. Phil Ehrig.

They are taking over for Dr. Paul Maxwell, who is resting in Florida. Dr. Maxwell chairmanned the club's 1962 and 1963 record drives and was to have headed this one, when an illness sidelined him temporarily.

Quota for the upcoming drive is 135 pints. "I'm confident the club will meet this goal," Katz said, "but we can't do it alone. This is a community project and everybody benefits from this wonderful Red Cross Program."

The Girl in the Center Ring

You're looking at 18-year old Vicki Unus, Ringling's star performer in "The Greatest Show on Earth."

Authorities on physical fitness say that her performance exemplifies the grace, coordination, agility and confidence that girls can develop through vigorous daily exercise. And these are assets of body and mind that all girls could and should have—regardless of what they intend to do in the future.

But most girls nowadays shun the healthful activities that could make them look and feel better, and have more enthusiasm for life in general.

What about your young daughter? Perhaps she, like the average high school student, spends 15 to 30 inactive hours a week watching television—and less than two hours a week in activities that build physical fitness.

The healthy, energetic, self-disciplined young women that our country needs could be developed—if every school had a daily period of planned, supervised, vigorous activity. Provision of such a program in all schools of our nation is a basic national need, according to the President's Council on Physical Fitness.

To help your daughter—or your son—realize their full potential for health and physical efficiency, parents must take an active interest in initiating and improving fitness programs. Make your concern known to your local school officials and community leaders. They will welcome your interest and support.

For a free booklet to help you evaluate the physical fitness program in your child's school, write to the President's Council on Physical Fitness, Washington 25, D. C.

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

The Arctic Zone and the Tropical Zone may be descriptive terms but Temperate Zone has always seemed a misnomer for the section we live in, which we may call many things but very seldom temperate.

Especially as we grown older and start watching a little wistfully as our more foot-loose friends take off for warmer climes. Not so much warmer this winter so far according to a letter from Mrs. Arthur Rugh who has been waiting for some Florida sun "Visitors still wearing winter underwear," she reports and adds "Blessed be the Pocones, snow, ice and all. At least, we know what to expect."

What we don't expect is a January thaw. Logic has nothing at all to do with the hope which it engenders. We know full well that we can expect ice and snow, cold and blow right through March, but there is nevertheless a lift to the spirit (and some late suppers) as we suddenly realize that the light is lingering well after 5 p.m.

The sight of the creek breaking through the ice and flowing again dark against the dark snow banks, the smell of melting snow, the size of the buds on the rhododendron, all give the illusion that winter is giving ground.

Before our hopes are frozen solid in their tracks, we might talk about people, who aren't quite as unpredictable. Although I suppose the Pusateri's never expected that they would have one daughter's wedding and their other daughter's engagement both in the same paper.

Nor did Mrs. Elizabeth Evans expect to get a corsage with blossoms of dollar bills when she turned out for the WSCS meeting on her 80th birthday. But at least the surprises are pleasant ones.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a street-length gown of taupe taffeta with a frosting of Alencon lace motifs. Her three-tiered bouffant veil of silk illusion was arranged from a single rose of organza. She carried a prayerbook with a white orchid.

Thomas Knetz of Haddonfield, N.J., brother-in-law of the bridegroom, was best man.

A reception for the immediate families was held following the ceremony. After a trip to Washington, D.C. Mr. and Mrs. Lorimer are now at home at 607 Shady Lane, Collingswood, N.J.

THE WYCKOFF SHOPPER

Back again from what was meant to be a three day vacation, but wasn't really! With Mother in the hospital, having fractured her hip in a fall on Saturday, the two day trip I had planned never did materialize. Now, with her operation in the past, she is doing very nicely, and things are settling down to near-normal once again.

At Wyckoff's there have been a number of changes since last week . . . and most of them have to do with the Art Show which we are continuing. Paintings that had only one sticker (one with a number) last week, are now showing two stickers — one marked SOLD. Sales have been marvelous . . . and this must be encouraging to all the Sunday Painters who enjoy their hobby but had never planned to profit from it financially. One of these artists is Ruth Walz, of our Shoe Department, who has been painting now and then "just for fun." Two of her paintings are in this year's show, and one has found a new home. Called "Soliloquy," it is a tall, narrow panel mounted to the right of a wide, plain white panel. It shows a weathered pole jutting out of water, topped by a tiny bird looking wistfully into the distance.

There are "Sold" stickers too on both of John Janing's paintings, and on both of Jim Smith's. Other artists who have found purchasers here at our Wyckoff show are Carla Holmgren with her "Variation on a Theme, #3" . . . Phyllis Rubin with "Thrice is Magic" — both artists are very contemporary in their style; Lottie Farley, "Fall Scene," Harriet Harrison, "Noble Friend," study of a Great Dane; Yvonne Mase whose "Old Memories" is a mood-painting of a weather-beaten cottage in a fall setting; Alice H. Sutton, "Poppies," one of the almost 200 florals she has sold in the past few years; Louise Cook, Paradise Creek; Beatrice Crowther, "Shady Glen," and Dr. Herbert A. Lorenz, "Pocono Pines." There are others also, but for one reason or another they may not be mentioned at the moment.

Glancing through the register, I find that many of those who have visited our show have written comments, all of which are most complimentary one pays tribute to the works of Sterling Strauser. Others have remarked that the show is "interesting" . . . "very nice" . . . "best yet" . . . "a nice room too" . . . "so interesting I wish I could browse for the entire day," et cetera. I am sorry criticisms are not more specific, for each person in his or her way is a critic . . . and almost everyone has an opinion of merit to offer. None has been more open in expressing his views, however, than the individual who invaded the gallery armed with a boxful of red, silver, blue, and gold stars. Walter Wyckoff thought I had put them on various pictures for some reason. I thought he had done so. We finally decided one of the judges was responsible. But no . . . the judges were as curious as we. Then, Friday evening, one of our visitors told us she had watched a man judge, and had been surprised how furtively he sidled up to paintings and affixed the stars when he thought no one was looking.

I mentioned this to Don Johnson of Bath, and his pretty wife when they stopped Tuesday at my home. Don is our third prize winner Professional. (I had pressured him to enter the professional class and forsake the amateur ranks this year, in view of the recognition he has been gaining far and wide.) Don was much interested. "I'd love to talk with that fellow," he said. "I imagine he has some mighty interesting opinions about art, and some of them may be very constructive and worthwhile."

I don't know about that. I only know that for a while Walt and I had stars in our eyes . . . stars in one hair . . . and even our customers were seeing stars. A truly star-telling situation . . . but fun.

Polish Survey Shows

Working Girls Are Unhappy

AP Newsfeatures — Poland has a large force of women engaged in manual work. But only one in 25 like their jobs. And many women take employment in factories to escape from country to city life.

These are findings from a series of sociological studies on Polish working women by Warsaw sociologist Janina Waluk. They are reported by researchers at Radio Free Europe in Munich, Germany.

This latest poll covers a representative sampling of female employees from four large Warsaw companies, and includes both factory and office workers. The first part of the study, reported last April, found that four out of five Polish women under 50 have jobs in industry. The current poll points out that women from almost a third of Poland's total work force, excluding agriculture and forestry.

Women covered in the study gave three primary reasons for working: Family financial needs, helping with their personal expenses and to enable them to move to the city. Less than 25 per cent of the factory employees want to work—and a third of this group are young, unmarried girls looking for a husband, concludes sociologist Waluk.

Has Two Humps
Glos Pracy, Polish trade union publication, discusses the survey.

"Outside employment places the working woman in a conflict between home and work. This conflict of interests might be the main reason for the dislike the women show for their employment.

"A working woman is like a camel with two humps—in the morning, while feeding cereal to the baby, she worries about being late to work and being caught by the personnel manager; during working hours she worries about her home and about sneaking in a trip to a nearby store to buy some food."

The union paper went on to lecture the husbands of working women, who "rarely believe that their responsibilities go beyond bringing in the bacon on the first of each month, and who dislike using their free time to help with housework."

"This attitude" scolds Glos Pracy, "contributes to the difficult position of women no less than the lack of services and the supply difficulties."

The March, 1963, study found that the average Polish working woman rises before 5 a.m., after 6½ hours sleep. Before leaving for the factory or office, she must buy milk, fix breakfast, feed the children and get the older ones off to school and feed her husband and get him off to his job.

Usually skipping her own breakfast, she spends some 30 minutes of her own time setting up her machine after she gets to her job, then puts in an eight-hour day.

After work she'll spend up to an hour shopping after work. Then she manages an hour with her children, puts in two hours of housework and cooking and then gets 43 minutes for herself.

Radio Free Europe is interested in such because it enables the American manager, privately supported station to plan its programs for Iron Curtain audiences according to its listeners' specific interests and needs. Instead of broadcasting descriptions of glamorous life in the West to already frustrated women like these, it provides useful household hints, ways to make life a little easier, ways to save steps in the housework, how to stretch an already-stretched food supply, and ways to repair home appliances.

Leadership Awards Earned By Pennsylvania 4-H-ers

So you think success has no formula?

You're wrong. Here's one formula used successfully to gain honors and recognitions for two Pennsylvania youths: Interest plus effort equals 4-H Club awards and honors.

That lesson was learned by Miss Linda Ronning, 17, of Reynoldsville, and Donald Trimble, 21, of Quarryville, winners of the state 4-H leadership award for 1963.

Miss Ronning recently returned from the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago. The trip, provided by the Sears-Roebuck Foundation, is awarded annually to one of the two winners. Trimble attended the National Congress in 1962 as state field crops winner.

Outstanding Girl
Miss Ronning was named outstanding 4-H Girl of Jefferson County in 1961. She has held all offices in her local 4-H Club. A member for eight years, she has done outstanding work in her projects of clothing, garden and cooking.

Selected as Pennsylvania 4-H Keystone winner for 1963 in leadership, Miss Ronning is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Ronning.

Dairy Farmer
Trimble is a graduate of Southern Lancaster County High School and now operates his own dairy farm with more than 21 registered Holsteins. He was named national Holstein Boy in 1962.

Trimble is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel E. Trimble. A member of 4-H for nine years, he has worked with projects in tractor, swine, tomatoes and grand championship in a Lancaster-Lebanon 4-H Club Pig Roundup in 1961.

Daily Record Home Economist
Stroudsburg — I suppose I'm the only housewife in Stroudsburg that is housecleaning in January. I'm not sure whether I'm late for Fall housecleaning or early for Spring, but the mood hit. The living room rug is gone to be mended, and carpenters are busy hammering and sawing as they work to finish off our downstairs into a recreation room.

So the house is in such a mess I figure it's better to join in than to sit and moan. But maybe it's really the Springlike weather that has me in a frenzy of scrubbing closets and cleaning bureau drawers. It's as if I'd better take advantage of the Spring mood before the snow and bitter weather come again.

I started with the refrigerator and oven. When Billy came home from school, I opened the oven and refrigerator doors to show him how they gleamed as if new. He put his hands on his hips, looked from one to the other, and said, "Gee, Mom, what did you do with all the food?" Then, shaking his finger at me, he said, "You waste too much money!" He's getting more like his father every day!

I didn't have the heart to use the oven that night, so I cooked in my electric skillet and made this goulash that we all liked. With a green salad and French bread, it's a complete meal. Any left over is good stuffed in whole green peppers which have been parboiled for five minutes.

Hamburger Goulash
1½ pounds ground beef
1 cup chopped onion
1 sliced celery
1 cup chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons shortening or bacon grease
2 cups elbow macaroni, uncooked
1 can (16 oz.) tomatoes
1 can (8 oz.) tomato sauce
1 cup water
1 teaspoon salt
1½ teaspoon pepper
1½ teaspoon oregano
1 can (4 oz.) mushroom stems and pieces

Cook ground beef, onion, celery, and green pepper in shortening or bacon grease until beef is lightly browned, stirring pan, reserving drippings. Add macaroni to drippings and brown lightly. Add beef mixture, tomatoes, tomato sauce, water, salt, pepper, oregano, and mushrooms. Cover tightly and cook slowly 30 to 35 minutes, or until macaroni is tender. Yields 8 servings.

If you do have any of this leftover and stuff it in peppers, add another can of tomato sauce to it, reserving some to put over the top. Bake in a 350 oven (or in your electric skillet) for twenty to thirty minutes until bubbly and heated through.

Another budget stretcher meal-in-a-dish recipe is the following. It's pictured above and you can see that it's made with macaroni spirals which adds interest. Of course, you can use elbow macaroni, but try something different for a change! Though this recipe is similar to the first, the seasoning is different and cheese is added. I think you'll like this, too.

Supper In A Skillet

1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
2 teaspoons salt
1½ teaspoon pepper
1½ teaspoon dry mustard
1 teaspoon oregano
1 pound (about 1 cup) rotini or spirals, mostaccioli, shells, or elbow macaroni, cooked and drained

At Home Look In Many Guises

The biggest overalls you've ever seen, starting thin under the bosom and widening to the ankles like clown's trousers into huge center pleated culottes, is designer Lori Till's idea of a wonderful at-home look.

The Tom-boyish denim floor length skirt has suspenders. The wide-open necked shirt worn underneath is a bandana print.

Still another fresh flare is a slightly shaped shirt buttoning from the shoulder down the side to the floor. At the hemline the dress bursts into black and white checked gingham ruffles, each tier a small, smaller, smallest set of checks.

Girls who just naturally love anything made for men and boys are wild about male surfing trunks, especially when they have flat figures.

The girl versions are hip-hung in stretch denim or madras check string tied and with watch pockets. The really big difference is that the girl types have bras.

DELAWARE VALLEY — Howard Orben, hitting the nets for 20 points, paced Delaware Valley to a 68-57 triumph over visiting Wallenpaupack last night in the start of the second half of the Wayne County Conference.

The defeat was the fifth in 13 starts for Wallenpaupack. Orben pumped in eight field goals and added four free throws to pace the winners. Frank Vandemark added 15 for Delaware Valley and Don Lopez chipped in with 10.

Jack Spall of Wallenpaupack shared scoring honors in the game by also hitting for 20 points on eight field goals and four foul shots. Bob Brown hit the nets for 14.

Delaware Valley held a slim 12-10 lead at the end of the first period but then outscored Wallenpaupack by a 19-12 margin in the second frame to hold a halftime bulge of 31-22.

Pius X Trims PCM

ROSETO — The Royals of Pius X, making their first appearance in the three-team Pocono Mountain League, scored a 55-46 victory over Pocono Catholic Missions last night as all four Royal scorers hit in double figures.

For the Kingsmen of Pocono Catholic, it was their second straight loss in league play.

They had earlier dropped a close decision to Pleasant Valley.

Jim Angeline led the Royals in scoring with 15 points on five field goals and five foul shots.

Frank Godina and DeRenzi each bagged 14 and Steve Ziegler hit the nets for 12 points.

Dick Dishman claimed scoring honors in the game, however, pumping in 25 points for the Kingsmen on 11 field goals and three foul shots.

Pius X jumped out in front at the end of the first quarter by 13-8 and led at halftime by a 31-22 spread.

It was much closer in the second half, however, as Pius X outscored the visitors by a 10-9 margin in the third period while the Kingsmen outpointed the Royals in the final stanza a 15-14 count.

Pius X also won the JV encounter, 36-22.

NBC recently won the 1964-65 college football television rights for $13,014,000 for the two years and has the World Series at $3.5 million a year.

ABC has a year to go on its television contract with the American Football League at $2.35 million.

The startling bid for the NFL games—and this does not include the championship game—marked an increase of about 200 per cent over the previous contract, also held by CBS.

When CBS negotiated the NFL two-year deal for $9.3 million, or $4.65 million a year, in 1962 this was reported as a ceiling for sports events.

The championship game, televised by NBC for $926,000 last year, is not included in the package but will be up for separate bids in March.

Bill MacPhail, CBS vice president in sports, heaved a sigh of relief when the award was announced. Representatives of the other networks quickly left Rozelle's skyscraper office where they had submitted sealed bids at 11 a.m. EST.

MacPhail's explanation for the sky high bid was that "bowling games are up substantially and also the rights to the Olympic games." He said the contract calls for the network to televise all NFL games on 14 Sundays, two Saturdays and Thanksgiving Day.

Home games again will be blacked out but the clubs reserve the rights to negotiate closed-circuit deals in their home areas for those games.

Farrell's newest project is to shepherd a caravan of Yankee players and officials to meet newspapermen and radio and television broadcasters in areas which contribute to the crowds at Yankee games.

The closest this caravan will travel to Stroudsburg next week is Wilkes-Barre.

Headed by Farrell, manager Yogi Berra and general manager Ralph Houk, the caravan also is scheduled for stops in Newark, N.J., Tuesday, Albany, N.Y., Wednesday, and New Haven, Conn., Thursday. It stops in Wilkes-Barre Friday.

Miller is Catasauqua's high flier.

Not only does he score with such high consistency but he's like flypaper on defense, too.

Turtzo Scores 55 In Knight's Rout

PEN ARGYL — Dave Turtzo ripped the nets for 55 points, setting a new school record — and the Green Knights of Pen Argyr also broke another school mark with most points in one game by pounding visiting Palisades last night, 99-53.

Turtzo pumped in 23 field goals and added nine foul flips for the new mark which broke his own record of 42 points against Southern Lehigh Jan. 10.

He now has accumulated 399 points in 13 games and gives him a four-year career total of 1,156. He is also the only Pen Argyr player ever to score more than 1,000 points during a career.

Grab Quick Lead
The Green Knights were never in any trouble during the rout as they led at the end of the first period by a 23-4 margin. The Pirates came to life — but much too late in the second session when they bagged 21 points but Coach Frank Van's crew maintained its hot pace by notching 32 for a halftime lead of 55-23.

Bob Singer tallied 21 for the Knights in a strong supporting role, although no such role was actually needed. Turtzo himself outscored the entire Palisades team.

The victory was the sixth in 13 games for the Green and White and evened their Lehigh-Northampton League record at 4-1.

E-burg Bows To Parkland

EAST STROUDSBURG — The Trojans of Parkland gained a 75-57 Lehigh - Northampton League victory over host East Stroudsburg last night as the visitors picked up their fifth league win in six starts.

Eastburg, fresh from an upset victory over Bangor, suffered its fifth league loss in seven starts and placed the Cavaliers at a 5-3 mark overall.

Parkland jumped out in front by a 22-12 bulge at the end of the first period and led at halftime over the slow-starting Cavaliers by 45-20.

Start Hitting
Coach Dale Baker's quintet started to hit with better consistency in the second half, outscoring the Trojans in the third frame by a 22-15 margin and holding the visitors even in the final frame, 15-15.

Parkland hit on 30 of 99 shots from the field while East Stroudsburg connected on only 18 of 77 for 23 per cent.

Four Parkland players hit in double figures with Rob Stanley setting the pace with 14. Dale Smock dumped in 13, Fred Bates added 12 and Fred Bartholomew chipped in with 10.

Bill Reese led the Cavaliers in scoring with 16 points while Thad Janusz added 12.

Contributing to the Salisbury victory were Tom Hadinger with 19 and Bob Strohl with 10. Lambert Murphy dumped in 14 points for the Bears of Cochin.

Pleasant Valley's inability to hit at the start of the game set them back by the end of the first period by a 15-4 margin and the Bears were never able to catch up. At halftime, Salisbury held a lead of 33-15.

The visitors outpointed Pleasant Valley in the third session by 22-13 but the Bears hit the nets for 22 points in the final canto while holding Salisbury to 10.

Rotary Inducts Depot Aide At Ladies Night Banquet

NEWFOUNDLAND — Maj. Robert Miller of the Toboggan Army Depot, was welcomed into membership in the Rotary Club of Newfoundland this week under the classification of Public Defense (Land).

Major Miller, a resident of South Sterling, was welcomed by Thomas Gangwere, of Lake Harbor, Greentown, president of the club, and received his membership pin from the Rev. Larry Lindemuth.

There were 43 members and their wives and guests present for the ladies night at Green's Restaurant. Speaker was Miss Camille Foetisch, Swiss exchange student, who showed slides of her country and family. She was presented with a gift of luggage from the club, on the occasion of her 18th birthday anniversary on January 21. She noted that "in Switzerland, the 18th birthday is a great occasion, similar to the 16th or 21st here. When one becomes 18, one may then consider himself old enough for everything but voting and paying taxes."

"No Such Thing" — One of the Rotarians noted that the dinner included Swiss steak. Miss Foetisch remarked that it was the first time she had ever eaten this, "since in Switzerland, there is no such thing as Swiss steak." An accomplished skier, Miss Foetisch explained that in her country, families take a plane to the mountaintops, and then ski home, an outing of a full day.

Our Mightiest Hour

to the Almighty, whose power is infinite, whose love is everlasting. It is constantly confident and courageous — because its resources cannot be exhausted.

In perilous times a great nation always finds its might in spiritual resources. And today, significantly, one of the essential elements of survival in which our stockpile dwarfs the Russians is FAITH. Khrushchev has no secret installation to match the thrust and force generated in the souls of our people by our hundreds of thousands of churches.

Think on these things as we worship together next Sunday morning . . . our mightiest hour!
